WHAT TRIED TO STAB THE PRES.

Another interesting chapter has been contributed to the history of the political contest of 1876-7, by Mr. Simon Stevens, of New York. Ex-Governor Hoadly, of Ohio, who is now a resident of New York, made a speech the other day in which he made the statement that the republican party stole the presidency, and thereby kept Mr. Hayes out. Mr. Stevens answered Mr. Hoadly by saying that after Mr. Hoadly had made his great speech on the electoral commission bill, he met Mr. Joseph Barrett in New York, a democratic partisan, and a work for Hayes, who said that he was well satisfied with the electoral bill, and that it would give Mr. Tilden the presidency.

His reason for making the statement that Mr. Tilden would be declared president, was, that the democratic caucus had agreed that, as the bill itself excluded from the commission Mr. Chief Justice Waite and Mr. Justice Brewer, of Ohio, and Mr. Justice Hunt, of New York, the democratic party in Ohio and the other in New York—and that, therefore, the democratic party, had elected to prepare Mr. Justice Chief, of Ohio, as chairman, with Mr. Justice Field, of California, and that the republicans had suggested, in their turn, Mr. Justice Strong, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Justice Miller, of Iowa, and for the fifth member from the judiciary, Mr. Justice Davis, and Mr. Justice Bradley were to draw lots, and that it was agreed that Mr. Justice Davis was to draw the long straw, and that, if this proposition should be carried out, Mr. Tilden's success was assured.

Justice Davis, it will be remembered, was the having a contest for the rectorship in Illinois with Senator Logan. The republican United States senators, or many of them, were informed of this, democratic scheme to have Judge Davis draw the long straw, and after consultation it was agreed that Senator Logan should be telegraphed to step down and out, and let Davis take the senatorship which would remove him from the supreme bench, and hence prevent him from serving on the electoral commission. Logan was advised by wire what course to take, which he did promptly after one hundred ballots had been taken. Davis was elected the next morning, and was then placed where he could not draw the long straw.

Thus the democrats were caught in their little game to secure the presidency by fraud; and because they were thus caught, they have never ceased to cry "fraud," because the commission gave the seat to Hayes.

In his Boston speech, Senator Sherman said: "I am decidedly in favor of tariff reform, always have been, and always will be. The tariff ought to be carefully revised, with a view to correct any inequalities or incongruities that have grown out of the change of values since 1883. Every imported article which does not compete with our domestic industry, and is essential to the comfort and wants of our people, should be placed upon the free list. Every raw material of industry which does not compete with our own productions should be especially selected for the free list." This language, says the Milwaukee Sentinel, is now quoted by the free trade papers as an evidence that Mr. Sherman has made a decided advance on his position of a few months ago, and that he has been forced to take a forward step by recent manifestations of public sentiment. The fact is, however, that at no time has Mr. Sherman or other leading republicans uttered any expression inconsistent with this passage from his Boston speech. It is in strict harmony with the republican platform of 1884, which recognized the fact that the tariff needed revision and that measures should be taken to avoid the accumulation of a large surplus in the treasury. There is not and there has not been any disagreement between the two leading parties on these points; but there is a radical disagreement between republicans and the free trade end of the democratic party as to the manner the desired results should be accomplished. No republican is bound, because he is in favor of revising the tariff and decreasing the revenue, to vote for the bill which Mr. Mills' Star-chamber committee may report.

Captain A. G. Weisert, of Milwaukee, was on Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting in Milwaukee, elected Department Committee for Wisconsin of the Grand Army of the Republic. Commander Weisert is a native of Ohio and a republican. He was born in Canton in 1843, and came to Wisconsin at an early age. For some time previous to the war he was a compositor in the State Journal office at Madison, and also for a short period afterward. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the 5th Wisconsin. He was wounded at the battle of Nashville and brevetted captain for meritorious services. He participated in forty-two battles and skirmishes, and carries a bullet. Mr. Weisert studied law in Madison, in Milwaukee, and the university of Michigan, where he received the degree of LL. B. He was admitted to the bar in 1867. He was for some time deputy collector of internal revenue at Racine. For the past dozen years Mr. Weisert has practiced law in Milwaukee, having established a lucrative practice. He was a member of the school board, from the 4th ward, Milwaukee, before the war was striding forward. At the first monthly meeting of the Church of England Bazaar, Funeral, and Morning Reform Association presided over by Canon Elwyn, the motion was agreed to: "That in the present condition of the public health it is imperative that a combined effort should be made on the part of ministers of religion, members of the medical profession, and persons of influence generally, to put a stop to the repulsive, dangerous and utterly indefensible habit of storing up in the neighborhood of large populations vast accumulations of human remains in every stage of decay and prolonged decay."

Since the days of "A Fool's Errand," "Bricks Without Straw," and that whole series of extraordinary novels and essays of literary, war and reconstruction, Judge Tilden has not attempted much fiction, confining himself to journalistic work and lecturing. But he has sent out several clever things with such touches of his characteristic power as to show that the "washed face" are only covered, not out. For, thus said & Hubert will shortly publish a story from his pen entitled "Black Ice," which is said to contain some valuable character studies, with incidents of blood and field that make the pulse beat quick.

The New York Mail and Express, in an article on the Lincoln banquet in that city last Saturday evening says: "The young, brilliant and swiftly growing successor of Matt E. Carpenter in the senate, Mr. Spooner, made his first appearance before a New York audience and came out of the competition with the old leaders with flying colors, holding his breathers from the start and inspiring them with vigor and admiring interest, by the oratorical fire, clean-cut logic and aggressive republicanism in his speech."

President Seelye, of Amherst college, has made a study of "Our Political Prospects" to determine what large moral principles the political party that hopes for permanent success must now build itself on. This essay will appear in the Forum for March. In the same number Representative Wm. M. Springer, explains the "Hindrances to Surplus Legislation," and Mr. Wm. R. Morrison points out from a revenue reform point of view, "Who is Entitled by Protection."

The Boston Traveler: Mr. Sargent's portrait of Gen. Lucius Fairchild, of Wisconsin, is one of the most successful shown at his exhibition at the St. Botolph Club. The long years of continued travel and brass band has told sadly upon the health of the gallant soldier and he is looking older and more worn than a year since. But it is an excellent portrait of a charming and noble man, whose brave history is an honorable paragraph in the chapter of American history.

The newspaper correspondents at Washington are trying to bring out Congressman Caswell as a candidate for governor. Mr. Caswell was never known to be caught in any trap set by correspondents. He is too shrewd a man for that.

DARING "BANK" ROBBERY.
A Texas Financial Institution Located in Broad Daylight by a Daring Band of Robbers.
CISCO, TEX., Feb. 17.—This city was thrown into excitement by a bold and daring robbery at about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At that hour C. C. Levesque, cashier, and T. R. Blake and M. D. Owens were in the bank when a man appeared at the cashier's window and demanded the bank's cash. Three other men appeared at the same time and took the three bankers in charge while the first collected the funds of the bank, about $50,000 in cash. Mr. Levesque was not allowed to quit the robbery, when ordered around, and he was severely beaten on the head. The robbers locked the bankers in a yard back of the bank building and jumping into a wagon, fled down the street, scattering the astonished people with volleys from their revolvers and displaying the bags of ill-gotten gains. The cashier was the first to free himself, and rushed into the street, explaining the case of the robbery. In a short time Marshal Thomas and posse were in pursuit. The men were unmasked and an accurate description is given, from which the authorities think they know the men.

Robbers Share the Spoils.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 17.—Four hundred and twenty workmen employed at the K. Porter's locomotive works received the second annual division of profits from the manufacturing yesterday. Mr. Porter does not allow the firm's profits to go beyond a certain figure, and the men get the advantage of the increasing business. Each employee was allowed a sum proportioned to his salary. Some of the men received only $2 each; some of the men $120 each, while the bosses received from $150 to $300. The average was about $10.

Death of an Ex-Governor of Virginia.
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 17.—Hon. Wm. Robertson, of Abingdon, Va., died, at the age of 84. He served one year as Governor of Virginia in 1836, and was recorded a great politician at that time. He was a prominent of aboriginal history and on the Pamunkey river. They will go into mourning at once.

Closed Up.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—Mr. J. F. Perlat & Co., the well-known fur dealers at 166 State street, have failed. Judgments aggregating about $75,000 were entered against them yesterday morning, and Deputy Sheriff Cleveland took possession of the stock and closed the store. The stock of the firm is valued at $30,000.

Italian Still Howling for a Championship.
SPRINGFIELD, N. S. W., Feb. 17.—Hanan and Kemp have been matched to race for a championship of the world and $500 a side championship of the world and $500 a side on the Pamunkey river. They will go into mourning at once.

Notice.
All persons indebted to the Empire Cross Spring Co. are respectfully requested to call and settled at once. All accounts and notes due and unsettled after the first day of March, 1888, will be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.

LITTLE PHIL'S BIRTH.

A Cousin of General Sheridan Declares That the Famous Warrior Was Born in Ireland—His Angel Mother, However, Declares He First Saw the Light at Newmarket, Wis.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 17.—The Milwaukee Journal publishes the assertion, based on the word of a shoe-maker who says he is the General's cousin, that Phil Sheridan was born in Ireland, and is therefore ineligible to the Presidency.

GENERAL SHERIDAN'S MOTHER.

"Mr. Sheridan, my husband, and I were born in County Galway, Ireland, and near the town of Virginia. We landed in this country in 1828. After residing in Albany, N. Y., we came here to Somerset in 1831. Phil was born in the little frame house still standing on West South street, near Columbus street."

"There are rumors that he was born in Albany, N. Y."

"Oh, no. There are no doubts, persons still living here who remember his birth. I suppose this report comes from Albany. Phil knows this is his birthplace, and has told newspaper reporters in my presence over and over again that he was born here."

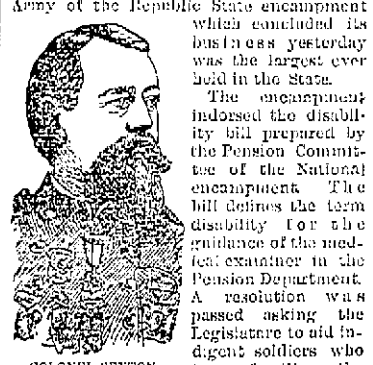

"You have no doubt heard he is spoken of as a candidate for the Presidency?"

NEW LEADERS CHOSEN.

Illinois and Wisconsin Veterans Elect Officers.

WORK OF THE TWO ENCAMPMENTS.

COLUMBUS, Ill., Feb. 17.—The Grand Army of the Republic State encampment which concluded its business yesterday was the largest ever held in the State.

COLUMBUS, ILL.

The object being to prevent the separation of the soldier from his family by sending him to the Soldiers' Home, a proposition to send the Soldiers' Home to Quincy over the National Government was voted down. Greetings were sent to Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Logan, and the committee of the last encampment to bring the General's remains to Chicago was continued. The next annual Illinois department encampment will be held at Springfield the third Wednesday in February, 1889.

The 65th list for Commander went: Colonel James A. Sexton, 510; W. L. Dunlap, 210; A. O. Caldwell, 115. Following are the remaining officers of the department elected and installed last night: Senior Vice-Commander, H. J. Lytle, Detroit; Junior Vice-Commander, F. M. Treckel, Harrisburg; Chaplain, W. D. Crank, Medical Director, W. C. Wagner, Assistant Adjutant-General, A. B. Smith, Quartermaster-General, Thomas W. Scott, of Fairfield, Council of Administration, O. J. Avery, Postmaster, William C. Lister, J. T. Harrell, Aurora; O. C. Towner, Rockford, and N. B. Thistlewood, Cairo.

The ladies had a coronation for officers of their "soldier's care" for President Mrs. Sarah Bradford, of Augusta; Vice-President, Mrs. D. Tyto Leaverton, Philadelphia; Junior Vice-President, Mrs. Weiss (colored), of Chicago; Chaplain, Mrs. Seigler, of Peoria; Delegate-at-Large, Mrs. Stadden, of Springfield; Treasurer, Miss Ada Carlotta, of Bloomington.

The Wisconsin encampment. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 17.—The second day of the Wisconsin department was marked by a very careful and studied effort on the part of the old soldiers to avoid taking any action which might be open to the charge of dabbling in politics. The result was a very quiet and very successful election of officers.

The other officers elected were: R. L. Wing, of Pewaukee, Senior Vice-Department Commander; W. A. Brown, of Racine, Junior Vice-Commander; George Fisher, of Darlington, Chaplain; Almond Clark, of Sheboygan, Medical Director. A casual administration was elected and Milwaukee was chosen for the next place for holding the annual encampment.

The Committee on Annual Address reported a memorial to Congress, which was unanimously adopted, regarding the published rumors that some part of the war records at Washington are to be destroyed, asking Congress to enact legislation as will permanently preserve all such records, which are of incalculable value not only to the Government and to the veterans, but to the whole American people, both North and South. A jolly camp-fire closed the convention last night.

The department convention of the Women's Relief Corps was attended by thirty-six voting members yesterday. The report of the treasurer was received and approved, whereupon the convention elected new officers as follows: Mrs. Clara Rankin, of Racine, President; Mrs. Charles H. Bell, of Milwaukee, Senior Vice-President; Mrs. Helen Puffer, of Monroe, Junior Vice-President; Mrs. Eleanor Stone, of Brookfield, Treasurer; Mrs. Della D. Eoyt, of Sparks, Chaplain. The greetings of the convention of the Women's Relief Corps of Illinois, in session at Springfield, were received and promptly answered.

AFTER GOULD AND SAGE.

The Grand Jury considering the charges against John Gould and Russell Sage, made on behalf of the stockholders of the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company, of appropriating to their own use $3,000,000 of the company's bonds, returned a verdict yesterday morning. The jury was given all documents bearing on the case and next Monday witnesses will be summoned. Among the documents submitted to the grand jury was a pamphlet containing the printed arguments of counsel for complainants and defendants, heard by District Attorney Fellows with closed doors when considering the case, and which were not to be read before the grand jury. Edmund L. Andrews, who presented the case against the defendants before the district attorney, said the offense was clearly embezzlement, and that the prosecution was not barred by the statute of limitations. Messrs. Holmes and Dillon argued for the defendants, holding that the court proceedings were legal, that Gould and Sage's actions were authorized by their appointment as trustees, and that the action was barred.

Killed Himself.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—Abbot L. Reblor, brother of Charles Reblor, who recently committed suicide when the knowledge of his forgeries was about to develop, has followed his brother by suicide. It happened Wednesday night at Fern Bank, a suburb of Cincinnati down the Ohio river, at his residence. He used two revolvers, holding one in each hand, and directing one to his brain and the other to his heart. His suicide was a mystery. No cause is known for the deed, except the disgrace of his brother Charles.

McGinnis a Presidential Candidate.

—The jury in the Williamson case, at six o'clock last night, agreed to disagree, and so returned their verdict. It is reported that on the last ballot the jury stood eight to four in favor of acquittal. There being three indictments against Williamson, a second jury was drawn yesterday afternoon, and the trial is set for Monday next. District Attorney D. M. Malone and E. M. Hyzer appears for the state, and O. H. Fether and M. G. Jeffris for the defendant. The case to be based on Monday charges Mr. Williamson with the embezzlement of thirty-four shares of stock of the Wisconsin Shoe Co.

—Last evening a brace of tramps, holding the "freedom" of the jail yard, stole a dressed hog from the sheriff's stable, and with a team belonging to the sheriff, they took the hog up town and sold it to Dick Rooney, proprietor of the meat market on the bridge, representing that they resided at Edgerton, and had some fat cattle for sale, which Mr. Rooney bargained for. They received a check for their pork, and went their way. Rooney's chief clerk, Joe Hennossey, thought he recognized the team as that belonging to Sheriff Ward, and so firmly convinced was he that he telephoned the little circumstance to the jail officials. His suspicions proved true, as Tarkney Roos responded immediately and started out in search of the missing property. He soon found the team and tramps. Payment on the check has been stopped, and the captured tramps will like to suffer severely for the little piece of lawlessness.

TELEGRAMS AND NOOP-SHIFTS

Their Relations as Brought Out by an Amateur Operator.

Getting work in a Western Union telegraph office is not the easiest thing in the world to do. There was a young man in the first ward who tried it the other day and who now wonders whether it was a cyclone that struck him or a brick house. He wrote to Superintendent Tabbe, of Chicago, stating his qualifications, and received the following letter:

"Dear Sir: Before considering your application we must ask you to write out and forward answers to the following questions:

"1.—Define the meaning derivation and laws of 'volt,' 'ampere' and 'watt,' and how would you tell them apart on the street?

"2.—Do you consider the overcurrent or the auto fault pole best for removing old lines from telegraph wires, and why?

"3.—Given the diameter in miles of a homogeneous hand drawn, copper conductor whose linear measurement is known, state its resistance and conductivity per mile, the temperature being 60 degrees Fahrenheit and by selling at eight dollars a pound on a ring market?

"4.—Under Western Union rules how would Chicago account in its reports for the following: Message originating in New York, sent, collect in Boston; party left Boston, and message forwarded to Cincinnati; tolls from Boston to Cincinnati; party left Cincinnati and party left Chicago to pay tolls from Boston to Cincinnati and forwarded message collect (New York to Boston and Cincinnati to Chicago) to party at Chicago. Chicago office unable to find party and message not delivered."

POINTS TO JANEVILLE.

The South Main Street Now Said to Be a Dead End.

According to to-day's dispatch the Chicago police now charge the murder of Amos J. Smith to James Clark, alias James Cartwright, believed to live near this city.

Clark left his Chicago boarding place very suddenly on Wednesday, February 15th, the day after the murder. He was seen around Smith's home as late as two o'clock on the morning of the murder and in his efforts left at the boarding house were three hundred dollars worth of goods stolen from houses on the West side. The unloading of the plunder also brought to light a picture of the alleged thief and murderer, and also the photograph of a young woman whom he claimed was his wife.

The police learned that the man who visited Smith on the afternoon of the murder, wore a heavy chinchilla overcoat and a silk hat made by a Wisconsin hatter, and that when he left the boarding house which was about 12:30 in the evening of the 15th last, he wore a seal-skin cap. In searching the wardrobe of the "bird that had flown" the police found the plug hat, but the seal-skin cap was missing. He had evidently left behind the greater portion of his clothing.

"It has been stated," says to-day's Herald, "that the thief had gone northward to his Wisconsin home, which is near Janesville, but the officers learned better, and that was, that he was making tracks for Texas, and an effort was being made to intercept him."

GENEVIÈVE ROGERS.

The Racine Journal speaking of the Rogers Dramatic Co., says last night the Rogers Dramatic Co. produced a musical comedy entitled "Bubbles." To say it was funny would be too easily expressed. From the time the curtain went up on the first act until it went down on the last there was a continuous roar of laughter at times almost drowning the play. "Bubbles" is without doubt one of the best of its kind, before the public comprising the most laughable situations with the best and newest of music. How the Rogers Co. can combine this style of play with emotional dramas and do them both so well is something surprising. Miss Genevieve Rogers, for many seasons leading lady for the Madison Square Co., and then steering under the management of Frank E. Aiken, will appear for one week at Lippin's opera house. Miss Rogers is a competent actress and possesses one of the finest wardrobes ever seen in the city.

MORNING YEAR USAGES.

Another Collection of Hints on Party Etiquette.

1. Ladies will call for the gentlemen promptly at eight o'clock. Those who keep their escorts waiting, and are consequently late at the party, will be treated for the remainder of the evening as wall-flowers.

2. The guests will be expected to behave in the most lady-like manner.

3. Gentlemen are to bring to the ball a fan, a corsage bouquet, and smelling salts.

4. The gentleman whose bouquet is not crushed in the first dance will be a witness to the fact that he has been held with propriety.

5. No gentleman shall cross the floor without a lady attendant.

6. If a gentleman goes for a glass of water unattended by a lady the floor managers will at once declare him out of order and compel him to be seated.

Gents are expected to be languid, to drop their handkerchiefs as often as possible, make frequent calls for water, and at supper give the ladies no time for eating.

The ladies who have been snubbed at dances heretofore will claim the greatest number of dances, and those who have been active society belles will let the gentlemen severely alone.

BETTER THAN A KISS.

"What a coward that Major Smith is," said a voice to Robinson. "Why, the very sight of him would make me ill. How did he ever manage to become an officer in the army?"

"Don't say anything against Smith, answered Robinson. He once saved my life." "Saved your life?" "Impossible! What do you mean?" "I mean that I was in the first stages of consumption; I was losing strength and vitality every day with the terrible disease, when Smith advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I had tried all kinds of medicines without success, and my physician had given me no hope; yet here I am, as well as ever a man was, and I owe my life to Smith, and to the wonderful remedy he recommended."

THE INDICATOR AND LOGS

Illustrations Showing the Method of Receiving Fire Alarms in the Janesville House.

The accompanying illustration represents the "indicator" and "logs" combined, which is in position at our fire alarm house. The logs are known as the 18-inch Exelior, manufactured by the Gemwell Co., and can be heard when the engine house doors are open, several blocks distant from the

221. By pulling down the cord on the right of the frame, these figures all disappear, the spaces occupied by the figures remaining blank until when the figures are thrown up in place by a machine hidden from view and connected with that shown in the picture just below the "indicator." With these indicators, the firemen are not compelled to count the strokes on the gong or bell. The first round of the alarm gives the figures in position, which is considered more reliable than counting the strokes.

The chief engineer has a gong at his residence similar to the illustration—without the indicator—the gong being eight inches in diameter instead of sixteen.

CONDEMNED BY CROWS.

How the Crows Will Execute Orders.

Against Their Lives.

Of the almost human intelligence of crows there can be no doubt. Innumerable authenticated incidents prove this, and if credence is needed, follow the coast line—figures on a day upon the shore. Here, says a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, you will see these dusky ravens hovering about, or strutting at a safe distance, till the digger has thrown across the beach a piece of food. Watching his chance, the crow will pounce upon it, rise to a great height, let it fall upon the rocks, and, instantly descending, wrench apart the shattered shell, devour its contents and continue with many croakings and chucklings over its own wisdom and success. I am also convinced that crows possess still more remarkable characteristics. I fully believe that some sort of civil and penal codes exist among their communities; that in some sort of way they preserve a record of misdeeds; and that, while they may have no system of rewards, they certainly command direct punishments to offenders, from the crow standard of ethics. At Crow's Neck, near Trenton, N. J., there exists a sort of crow metropolis. Vast numbers of crows gather here to apparently adjust their civic affairs. One day last September when passing along a wooded road skirting a large corn-field, the sky suddenly became blackened by a swirling, shrieking and cawing, rose high above the surrounding forest, and then, swiftly descending, formed a hollow circle in the center of the field, the black mass of crows gathered there to some purpose. Then from the inner edge of the circle a select few arranged themselves in stately groups in the center. Court being opened, two culprits crows were brought before the bar. Under guard they stood there silently, with hang-dog heads and guilty looks. Their certain trial lasted nearly half an hour, and all the wrangling of a human court, including the sentencing, was pronounced, and suddenly half a dozen executioners pounced upon the unresisting victims and beat them to death with their beaks, wings and claws. Apparent to the onlookers, the scene was attested by amazing acclamations, and vast clouds of crows, whirling and swirling from air to earth in an ecstasy of approbation, scattered to the winds nearly every vestige of their former criminal brethren. Astonished, I related what I had seen to farmers thereabouts, but, smiling at my ignorance, they informed me that this was of common occurrence, and the least remarkable of crows' many wonderful feats and performances.

The breath of a chronic catarrh patient is often so offensive that he becomes an object of disgust. After a time almost all the bones of the body are attacked, and frequently destroyed. A constant source of discomfort is the dripping of the purulent secretions into the throat, sometimes producing inkyetate bronchitis, which in its turn has been the cause of pulmonary disease. The brilliant results which have attended its use for years past properly designate Ely's Cream Balms as by far the best and only cure.

THE PACIFIC SLOPE.

Some of the Beauties of the Climate of Southern California.

To the Editor.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 13/88. It may seem almost like repeating a "twice told tale" to write anything more, pro or con, about this much discussed land of interest to-day out to me who has been a quick observer resident here three months, and these months including the most disagreeable, most dreaded and commented upon of all the year; listening to and reading statements often founded upon the facts of their own personal experience, without any very large number of conditions, their personal prejudice deciding, instead of the more fairly was conspicuous from comparison, which, and not mere statistical figures, should be made an important factor in a mere house letter. I feel inclined, through the courtesy of your paper, to make some replies to the many queries, such as "Well, now, how do you look at these things?" After reading the "Terrible Scorching" given this valley, indiscriminately by Mr. Butterfield in the "Milwaukee Sentinel" of January 25th, I felt especially "called upon" to at least protest against some of his rather waddy conclusions.

Yes, Mr. B. was here in the midst of the most attractive season of the year, as I am told by many who have been residents for years. Although rains are most desirable and lack of it most unfortunate for all interests of the country, yet water and free soil will, when mingled, form a most undesirable compound for locomotion, either for pedestrians or hauling heavily-laden teams, and here, where as yet few pavements under the constant grinding accumulations of a large community such as a free city, like Los Angeles, where hundreds of said teams are daily plunging through or into its depths. A block company man will understand, without the telling, that the road-walk at night might "walk deep in mud." But I must say that for the mud that comes from the copious rains of this season, it becomes dry and brittle in some places, and all those streets are being paved with all the rapidity that men and money can do it. Even Sundays are not exempt from the sight and sound of the paves; thousands of men and teams are constantly at work to make agreeable, yet attractive, the stay of the many "drifters" who come with very sensitive nerves and great expectations, and leave, sometimes, with an unexpressed conclusion, that because the climate has been gratuitously showered in glory, all about them, that somehow the Aborigines should have landed two streets and, for their particular convenience.

As to toilet facilities, of which there are doubtless many opportunities for criticism, one can well see the utter impossibility for the largest hospitality to stretch the accommodations for hundreds to cover all the demands of thousands without its seeming a little "thin" in some places; although one of the most noticeable activities this season is the wonderful, to an eastern locker-on, rush and competition of hotel and lodging houses. Indeed the query is, what use can such large investments be put to when all this rush and heat of excited night-seers shall have subsided into quiet hours of their own; or returned to the land of ice and blizzards?

I wish to enter my protest, in the name of that Providence who has done all that He may do, against those who forget that "Rome was not built in a day." I am influenced by no boom, no expectations of fee or reward (were my judgment worth anything) but to the name of Justice I repeat, who can, in the light of common sense, make an unfavorable distinction between this garden of glory and greenness, every day sunlight, even if it rains a part of the day, and all of the snow-covered, ice-bound landscape of the Sierras and the At-tas? While you, there, are hovering over registers and coal stoves to-day as ever since our arrival, Nov. 15, we may with all pleasure and light wraps (as we have eight times pointed out) be on the side of our hills and mountains, and in the heart of the Sierras, many times in that direction had we so planned. Indeed I could not enumerate the hours spent in the park—four blocks from our rooms—reaching, seeing and talking, all through these past months, except the few rainy days, with singing birds and lovely shrubs and plants and trees, all like June at home. Mud? Why, sometimes, but very soon the mud was like Turkish baths! Only relief known to be specific in rheumatism.

Now spring dress goods at Bart, Bartley & Co's.

A very choice little farm of ten acres adjoining the city limits, was bought by its present owner, two years ago for $2,100 cash. There is a good house, barn and tobacco shed, an orchard of 50 trees and small fruit. The owner has decided to permanently locate in another state and to effect an immediate sale for that purpose, will sacrifice $400 of its cost and actual value. $1,700 of its purchase money can remain on mortgage at 6 per cent. This is a better bargain than gold dollars at 80 cents.
